Cody was a huge help to the project. He is a commuter, so I will not penalize attendance issues. He was always active on the documents and was a huge asset of the project.

Anthony was the biggest part of the project and honestly did most of the work. He was always organizing and worked extremely hard on the project. This project would not have been possible without him and I would have given him 6's instead of 5's if I could.

I definitely did my best to help and I always showed up. I cared about the project and did a lot of research to try and help out and in the end I made many contributions.

He missed the first meeting and was late a few times but when he was there he was a huge help. His knowledge and work on the website was huge and he definitely added a lot to our project.

Joe only showed up once, and when he was there, he was not prepared. I hate to throw someone under the bus, but Joe's actions were unfair to someone like Anthony who worked super hard. In the end I honestly think he added more problems as we had to decide what he would say in the slide and things like that.
